PROPOSAL FOR BONDS

Important Circular Issued by Secretary Carlisle.

A NEW ISSUE OF FOUR PERCENTS

One Hundred Million Dollars in Coupon or Registered Bonds in Denominations of Fifty Dollars and Multiples of That Sum, Due in Thirty Years After Date, Offered to the Public.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Speculation concerning the amount and character of the new bond issue was set at rest last night when Secretary Carlisle made public a circular on the subject. The loan will be a "popular" one and the circular, which is dated Jan. 6 gives notice that the government will sell $100,000,000 30-year 4 per cent coupon or registered bonds dated Feb. 1, 1895, for which purchasers will be required to pay in gold coin or gold certificates. This is the first issue by the present administration of such a large amount of bonds at one time, all the previous issues having been for $50,000,000.

The circular also contains an intimation of a possible further issue of bonds should the issue or sale of an additional or different form of bond for the maintenance of the gold reserve be authorized by law before Feb. 5. It was almost midnight when Secretary Carlisle's circular was made public.

The fact that the bonds will be issued in sums of $50 and multiples thereof and be payable in installments is a feature which it is believed will make them be regarded with popular favor.

The main reason for dating the bonds a year back is said to be in order to give the public a better opportunity to judge their market value by comparing them with the gold coins issued at that time so that their bids can be made to conform with the market value of those bonds on the 1st of February.

The circular is as follows:

NOTICE is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received at the office of the secretary of the treasury at Washington, until 12 o'clock m., on Wednesday, the 5th day of February, 1896, for the purchase of one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) of United States 4 per cent coupon or registered bonds, in denominations of fifty dollars ($50) and multiples of that sum, as may be desired by bidders.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. The bonds will be dated on the 1st day of February, 1896, and be payable in gold thirty years after that date, and will bear interest at 4 per centum, payable quarterly, in coin, but all coupons maturing on or before the 1st day of February, 1896, will be detached, and purchasers will be required to pay in United States gold coin or gold certificates for the bonds awarded to them and all interest accrued thereon after the 1st day of February, 1896, up to the time of application for delivery.

Payments for the bonds must be made at the treasury of the United States at Washington, or at the United States sub-treasuries at New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, or New Orleans, or they may be made at San Francisco with exchange on New York, and all bids must state what denominations of bonds are desired, and whether coupon or registered, and at what place they will be paid for.

Payments may be made by installments, as follows: Twenty per cent upon receipt of notice of acceptance of bids, and 20 per cent at the end of each 10 days thereafter; but all accepted bidders may pay the whole amount at the date of the first installment, and those who have paid all installments previously maturing may pay the whole amount of their bids at any time not later than the maturity of the last installment.

The bonds will be ready for delivery on or before the 15th day of February, 1896. Notice is further hereby given that if the issue and sale of an additional or different form of bond for the maintenance of the gold reserve shall be authorized by law before the 5th day of February, 1896, sealed proposals for the purchase of such bonds will also be received at the same time and place, and up to the same date and upon the same terms and conditions hereto set forth, and such bids will be considered as well as the bids for the 4 per cent bonds herein mentioned.

JOHN G. CARLISLE, Secretary of the Treasury.

FORECAST OF CONGRESS.

Both the Senate and House Will Get Down to Active Work This Week.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The senate is expected to resume the work of the session in earnest on Tuesday. The finance committee has promised to report both the bond bill and the revenue tariff bill on that day, and it may be reasonably expected that if this promise is kept the debate during the remainder of the week and for some time afterward will be based on these bills.

The bond bill probably will be the first of the two measures to receive attention, and it is considered probable that a fortnight may be devoted to its consideration. The Republicans also are hopeful of being able to dispose of the tariff bill in the same length of time. They have received assurances from individual Democratic leaders that they will not resort to dilatory tactics to prevent the early disposal of either of the bills. This does not mean, however, that they will not insist upon a thorough debate upon them.

Senator Elkins' bond resolution holds its place on the calendar as the unfinished business and is in position to furnish a basis of discussion until the finance committee bills shall be reported. If it should not be acted upon before these reports are made, it is yet uncertain whether the resolution would be pressed, but the chances are that it would be.

The fate of the tariff bill is not certain. On this bill the Republicans consider themselves masters of the situation in committee and they are in doubt whether to report it as it came from the house or to amend it in accordance with the wishes of individual Republican senators. There is a disposition on the part of some of the members to increase the advance made on all the schedules except that covering sugar from 15 to 20 per cent, while others think the increase should only apply to agricultural products. In either event it is probable that the sugar schedule will receive the same treatment as the other schedules in obedience to the wishes of Senator Perkins of California and Senator Thurston of Nebraska.

House Forecast.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The house this week will settle down to the routine work of the session. Until Wednesday, however, the work will not be well defined, as none of the committees have reported bills and the first three days will therefore be devoted to unanimous consent legislation and such matters as may be brought before the house. On Wednesday, or at latest on Thursday, the pension appropriation bill will be reported and its consideration will be entered upon. As a rule the deficiency bill is the first appropriation bill considered, but the estimates for the deficiencies will not be submitted until next week, and as the pension bill is ready, save for its formal approval by the full appropriation committee on Wednesday, it has been decided to dispose of it while work on the other regular appropriation bills is proceeding.

SAVED FROM THE ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Another Prisoner Confesses to the Crime Charged Against Bartholomew Shea.

ALBANY, Jan. 6.—Just 48 hours prior to the execution of the death sentence upon Bartholomew Shea, another man confessed to the murder and Shea was thrown by the electric chair. The invitations for the electric killing of Shea had been issued, the state electrician was already upon the ground at Dannemora prison, the governor had decided on Saturday not to interfere in the carrying out of the sentence and Shea had resigned himself to his fate.

The man who voluntarily confesses to the crime is John McGough of Troy, now serving a sentence of 19 years and six months for shooting and attempting to kill William Ross, a brother of Robert Ross, who was supposed to be Shea's victim. McGough had contrived to keep informed as to the success or the failure of the applications for commutation made in behalf of Shea, and when he learned that the governor would not interfere and arrangements were being made for the execution McGough sent for the warden of the prison, and gave him a written statement that he, McGough, and not Shea, had shot and killed Robert Ross. The statement contained no details of the shooting, other than the bold confession of the fact.

Warden Thayer conveyed this information to Governor Morton, who granted a respite for four weeks, during which time counsel could take the proper means to bring the matter before the courts for a new trial. The respite will be in force until Feb. 4.

The crimes occurred upon the 6th of March, 1894. Shea and McGough headed a crowd of repeaters, who had worked almost every polling place in Troy. They had been told not to try their games in the ward in which the Ross brothers, William and Robert, were the head of the Republican party, but announced that they would. In anticipation of their visit, the Rosses, John Roland and several other citizens had armed themselves with clubs and some with pistols loaded with blank cartridges. It was shortly after that that the melee occurred, and while 20 or more shots were fired the Ross boys fell. It was while Robert lay prostrate that somebody ran up and shot him in the head. This crime was finally laid to Shea's door, and he was sentenced to death, while McGough was sent to prison for 19 years for his assault upon William Ross. Shea's case was taken to the court of appeals, which confirmed the conviction. The governor respite him until after the holidays, but Saturday refused to commute his sentence.

One Body Still in the Ruins.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—All the missing have been accounted for since Thursday's explosion except Charles Eyrskson, a boy, and his corpse is undoubtedly under the wreck. The work of excavating goes steadily forward. The coroner's inquest will be held as soon as the body is found.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—One person was burned to death and another was killed by jumping from a third-story window of the burning building, at 518 South Third street Saturday night. The man who was burned to death is supposed to be Harris Levi, but his body was so badly charred recognition was impossible. The other victim was Max Fitzburg, who jumped and broke his neck. The loss is about $3,500; fully insured.

Ab Eminent Divine Recovered.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Emeline O. Thomas, wife of Rev. H. W. Thomas, the eminent divine, died at her home in this city at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon of gastritis.

EIGHTY WERE KILLED

Jameson's Forces Were Out-numbered by the Boers.

FIVE HUNDRED PRISONERS TAKEN

Jameson, White and Willoughby Lodged in Jail at Pretoria—President Kruger Says They Will Be Punished According to Law, Which Means That They Will Be Court-martialed and Shot.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The colonial office has just received the following telegram sent by Hon. Sir Walter Francis Hely-Hutchinson, K. C. M. G., to Mr. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, and dated Jan. 4, 1896:

"Press accounts state that on the evening of Dec. 31 Dr. Jameson arrived in the vicinity of Krugersdorp. The next morning he attacked the Boers, who were entrenched in a strong position. The Boers numbered 1,500. Dr. Jameson was repulsed, but tried to move by Bandfontein to Roodeport, and was stopped at Dorinkop.

"On the afternoon of Jan. 2 heavy fighting took place, and the state artillery came up. Dr. Jameson was outnumbered, and some of his men were nearly starved, many of them having been without food for three days. Their horses were exhausted, and they were forced to surrender. Dr. Jameson lost 80 men killed beside the wounded. It is estimated that the total loss will reach 240. The loss of the Boers is reported as four killed and a few wounded. It is claimed that 15 Boers were unhorsed by one volley fired by Dr. Jameson's men. No officers were killed."

Governor Robinson of the Cape colony has telegraphed to Mr. Chamberlain that of the force led into the Transvaal by Dr. Jameson, 70 were killed, 30 wounded and 500 taken prisoners.

He also telegraphs that it is said in the Cape Town papers that Jameson, White and Willoughby are lodged in the Pretoria jail. Gray and Coventry of the British South Africa company are among the wounded.

JAMESON A PRISONER.

He Will Be Punished According to Law, Says President Kruger.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 6.—It is reported that Hon. Cecil Rhodes, premier of Cape Colony, has resigned, but Governor Sir Hercules Robinson, has declines to accept the resignation.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has telegraphed asking if it were true that Dr. Jameson was shot, adding that Mr. Rhodes had telegraphed a positive denial of the rumored gathering of a second force of the Chartered South Africa company's troops at Bulawayo. President Kruger has replied that he had given no orders to shoot freebooters who had been taken prisoner, but that they would be punished according to law. He said that they had been treated with the greatest consideration by the burghers, despite the fact that the latter had more than once been forced to take up arms in defense of the republic. President Kruger adds:

"Our confidence in Mr. Rhodes has received such a rude shock that his repudiation of the proceedings at Bulawayo ought to be received with the greatest caution. Even now we have news that an armed force is collecting on our borders. If that be true, I trust that not the word of Mr. Rhodes, but the influence of your government will suffice to prevent the further incursions of freebooters, although it was not successful in arresting the advance of Dr. Jameson."

Secretary Chamberlain, in his reply, thanked President Kruger for his assurances, and adds that he had always felt confidence in his magnanimity. He had sent an imperial officer, he said, to Bulawayo to see that his orders were obeyed, and to prevent the possibility of any further raids, and assuring President Kruger that he might rest confident that he would strictly uphold the regulations of the convention of 1884.

President Kruger Replies to the Emperor.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—President Kruger of the Transvaal has sent to Emperor William the following reply to the latter's telegram of congratulation upon his success in repelling invasion:

"I testify to your majesty my very deep and heartfelt thanks for your sincere congratulations. With God's help we hope to do everything possible to hold our dearly bought independence and the stability of our beloved republic."

SWITCH LEFT OPEN.

An Express Train Dashes Into a Freight Standing on a Side Track.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Jan. 6.—At 11 o'clock Saturday night two freight trains stood in a switch at Schooley's station, seven miles east of here. The first train pulled out and the conductor, thinking that the second one would follow, left the switch open. Fifteen minutes later the eastbound express came along at 40 miles an hour and running into the switch collided with the train standing there. Both trains were badly wrecked.

Engineer Tom Michaels of the express had both arms and legs cut off, and died yesterday morning at his home in this city. His fireman, Leon Mathers, was instantly killed. Engineer Fitzsimmons of the freight escaped without serious injuries, but his fireman, George Addis, and another fireman, J. H. Cox, were killed. Jesse King, the front end brakeman, was also killed, and Postal Clerk J. E. Edginton of Loveland and J. D.

Murphy of Greenfield were badly injured. Conductor Tom Brown of the express had to walk two miles to telephone the news to this city. Conductor Henderson of the freight is responsible for the wreck, as he left the switch open. The passengers on the express were badly shaken up, but none seriously injured.

VENEZUELAN COMMISSION.

Four of the Members Meet and Hold Their First Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—All of the members of the Venezuelan boundary commission except Mr. White visited the state department Saturday and conferred with Secretary Olney.

White has not yet reached Washington. Secretary Olney presented to each member a commission, of which the following is a representative copy:

To the Hon. David J. Brewer. You are hereby appointed member of the commission to investigate and report upon the true location of the divisional line between the territory of the republic of Venezuela and that of British Guiana.

It is expected that the commission will avail itself of all possible sources of information, will apply to the matter all pertinent rules of municipal and international law and will make a report to the president of their conclusions, together with the evidence and documents submitted to and considered by them, with as little delay as is compatible with the thorough and impartial consideration of the subject to be dealt with.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

The members of the commission then entered upon a consultation with Secretary Olney, lasting a little over half an hour, probably with a view to securing a suitable place and reaching an understanding as to what clerical and expert assistance would be necessary.

At the conclusion of the conference the commission retired to the diplomatic room for the first preliminary meeting. Secretary Olney tendering the services of his own private secretary, Mr. Blanford, to act as recording secretary until other provision is made.

The session lasted about an hour, and at its conclusion a formal statement of the proceedings, so far as it was deemed proper to make public, was given as follows:

Justice Brewer was unanimously elected president of the commission, and proceeded to administer to Messrs. Olney, Coudert and Gilman the oath, of which the following is a representative copy:

"I, Frederick Coudert, of New York, do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the constitution of the United States of America against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office of member of the commission to investigate and report upon the location of the divisional line between the territory of the republic of Venezuela and that of British Guiana."

Commission Olney then in turn administered the same oath to President Brewer.

The selection of quarters for the commission was left to President Brewer and Commissioner Olney.

The commission adjourned to meet next Saturday at 10:30 unless the president shall designate another day meanwhile.

The commission after adjournment proceeded in a body to the White House, and paid their respects to the president.

ELEVATION OF SATOLLI.

The Beretta Conferred Upon the Apostolic Delegate to the United States.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6.—The second step in the elaborate ceremony of elevating Francis Satolli, archbishop of Lepanto, and apostolic delegate to the United States, to the rank of cardinal, prince of the church, took place in the venerable cathedral here yesterday. The ceremony consisted of conferring the beretta, which is the cap worn by prelates on ordinary occasions and differing only in the case of cardinals in that it is red. The preceding steps have been the conferring of the zucchetto, or red skull cap and the administering of the oath. The remaining step is the conferring of the red hat, which must be done in Rome, by the pope himself, within six months from Nov. 30, the day upon which Satolli's appointment was made.

The old edifice in which the ceremony took place and in which the first American bishop was ordained, and the first American priest ordained, and which is presided over by the only American born member of the college of cardinals, was packed to the doors with an audience which numbered among its members many of the most prominent ecclesiastics, diplomats, legislators, educators and journalists in America. Archbishops, bishops and eminent professors represented the Catholic church in the congregation. The vice president of the United States and numerous congressmen, senators, judges and minor officials were present. Eminent Catholics outside the priesthood came many miles to see the ceremony and to lend impressiveness and importance to the occasion by their presence. Diplomats of high degree came to represent foreign governments and show the respect in which they hold the church which does honor to Satolli.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 6.—The news received here that President Cleveland had signed the statehood proclamation for Utah was the occasion for great demonstration of joy. Public buildings and places of business are decorated, and flags and bunting float in the breeze everywhere.

ALMOST AT HAVANA

Cuban Insurgents Are Within Twelve Miles of the Capital.

AN ATTACK HOURLY EXPECTED.

The Whole Island of Cuba, Outside of the City of Havana, Is Now in the Hands of the Insurgents—Spanish Soldiers Unable to Check the Advance of Gomez and His Band.

HAVANA, Jan. 6.—Havana is in hourly apprehension of an attack by the insurgent army or a part of it. Yesterday the bands commanded by Nunez and Bermudez were seen at Munigua, a village not more than 12 miles from Havana.

Many hundreds of noncombatant inhabitants of the island have come to Havana to await the passing of the storm. Still more have sent their wives and families here as a safe refuge. This class of the population is in a state of utter consternation and dismay, and spreads an infectious spirit of panic through all other circles.

The authorities no longer make the slightest concealment of the serious view they take of the situation, and there are some who do not hesitate to rail at the Spanish generals and the troops, and make bitter criticism of them.

There has been great fear that the light and water supply of the city would be cut off by a sudden raid of the insurgent forces. The idea of the city being left in total darkness for the unseen working of plots and seditious is itself enough to work a panic in the nervous condition of the public mind. Special preparations for the defense of the works that supply these have been made and artillery has been placed to command them against all probable sources of attack. All possible recruits have been enlisted for the defense of the city, and the available ground about the city has been filled with batteries of artillery, which are manned night and day.

The proclamation of General Campos to the effect that all horses in the island are to be held subject to requisition by the Spanish authorities has little effect, beyond its force as a confession that the Spanish forces are badly handicapped by the lack of mounted troops and are practically helpless against the cavalry forces of the insurgents.

In effect the whole island of Cuba, outside of the city of Havana, is now in the hands of the insurgents. They have not annihilated the Spanish forces, nor have they routed the whole army in any single pitched battle.

Yet the situation is completely in their hands, and so completely have they outgeneraled the Spaniards, that, to all appearances, Martinez Campo's army might as well be in Spain for any check it puts upon the movements to and fro of Maximo Gomez's army.

The advance of Gomez beyond Balaia has cut the line of telegraph, and all communication with the eastern part of the island, upon which Canipos principally relied for directing his forces. Details are meager of the movements of Gomez in Pinar Del Rio, and it is not known whether he is proceeding to the western portion of the province or has turned northward toward Havana.

Gomez Has 22,000 Men.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 6.—An American passenger arriving from Cuba last night reports that the Cubans are within 17 miles of Havana. According to his statement Gomez has 22,000 men.

The insurgents burned Quivicau, San Felipe, Duran, Melena, Del Sur, and Guara Friday night. These places are 20 miles from Havana.

AWAITING DEATH'S CALL.

A Kentucky Farmer Who Believes He Is Certain to Die January 15.

DANVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6.—Washington Richardson, a well-to-do farmer, 63 years old, living in Pulaski county, three miles from Somerset, is laboring under the firm and sincere belief that his earthly career is to be terminated by death on the 15th day of this month. He maintains that the fact has been communicated to him on more than one occasion within the past year.

He has had his lands surveyed and allotted to each of his children the portions he wants them to have. He has also made a will disposing of all other property and moneys among his children, and has invited all of them to spend the day and night with him in order that they may be present at the parting. Mr. Richardson was never in better health than he is enjoying now.

Injured While Escaping From Fire.

WAPAKONETA, O., Jan. 6.—The large residence of Mrs. Lillian McFarland was destroyed by fire yesterday with its entire contents. The fire started from the furnace, which exploded. The family had to jump from the second-story window to escape with their lives. Ruth, the 8-year-old child, received internal injuries which will prove fatal. The rest received broken limbs and other severe injuries. The loss will reach $20,000; insured in the Royal of London for $4,000 and the Underwriters' of Cincinnati for $3,000.

Cold Storage Warehouse Burned.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Jan. 6.—Fire caused $100,000 damage to stock stored in the Cold Storage company's warehouse yesterday afternoon, among the rest, 10,000 boxes of cheese, valued at $60,000, owned by George S. Bart & Company of New York and local firms. The Landreth Seed company of Manitowick loses 11,000 cases of canned peas. The losses are fully covered by insurance.

A SIMPLE REMEDY.

Lemonade Saved the Life of a Missouri State Official and Banker.

[Lexington Herald.]

Mr. J. H. Sistrunk, of this city, is at present enjoying a ripple of fame "abroad" of which the public has until the present been kept in ignorance.

A few weeks since Mr. Sistrunk read an Associated Press dispatch in a Lexington daily, stating that Judge J. D. Rose, of Curryville, Missouri, a prominent banker and State official, was dying with hiccoughs which had kept up incessantly for ten days.

Upon reading the item Mr. Sistrunk went immediately to the telegraph office and sent the following message to the stricken gentleman:

"Try strong lemonade; drink at intervals of five minutes until relieved."

Nothing further was heard from the case until a few days ago, when Mr. Sistrunk received a letter from the gentleman written by himself, in which he stated that he was again well and hearty, and that to his kindness he owed his life. The letter stated that at the time Mr. Sistrunk's telegram arrived, three physicians had declared his case hopeless, and had left him unconscious, and, as they thought, dying. The lemonade was given him as a last effort to save his life, with the happy result above stated.

Mr. Sistrunk says his father discovered the remedy accidentally years ago, and since that time many persons who suffered with intense hiccoughs have been speedily cured by its application. The remedy is certainly a simple one, and the public in general should make a note of it for future use.

MEXICO.

An Interesting Letter From the Capital of Our Neighboring Republic.

Something About the Country, Its Products, the People and Their Peculiarities.

[Correspondence of the BULLETIN.]

CITY OF MEXICO, December 28, 1895.

A few Maysville and Mason County people have ever visited Mexico, possibly a few lines concerning a trip to and through certain portions of this Republic may not prove entirely devoid of interest, and as I am well fortified with accident policies, being at a safe distance from, and having first shot at, your readers, with a reserved option as to repeating, I deem it measurably prudent to at least administer the preliminary shot; so here goes.

On Saturday, December 14th, six Kentucky gentlemen, none of whom, singular to relate, bore the title of Colonel, left Louisville, via Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile, New Orleans, Houston, Eagle Pass, Torreon and Leon for the City of Mexico. Sunday night and Monday were spent in New Orleans, and our destination was reached on Thursday evening.

The impression formed as a result of the first five hundred miles traveled by this route in Mexico are decidedly unfavorable, the country being exceedingly barren and uninteresting. Aikall deserts, almost entirely uninhabited by man, heat or vegetation of any description, extend from horizon to horizon. From Torreon, south for a hundred miles, conditions are but little changed. Occasionally you see a small cluster of mud houses occupied by Indians working on railway tracks. Further south, beginning with the City of Leon, you traverse a remarkably fertile and highly cultivated valley, probably twenty miles in width by two hundred in length, which must compare favorably with the best farming lands in America. Yet, with this wonderfully productive soil, so easily tilled and in direct rail communication with manufacturing cities, you observe no time or labor-saving machinery or agricultural implements; no modern plows, no cultivators of recent invention, no mowing or reaping machines, no steam or horse-power threshers, but a strict adherence to the antique wooden shovel plow, with one handle. The plowing, mowing and reaping is all performed by hand. The threshing executed by tramping, even the Coxy-hobo plan of tramping being tabooed, for fear of approximating "up-to-date" methods. Nearly all farming lands in this valley are necessarily and easily irrigated in consequence of having eight consecutive months of dry weather, during which period even occasional showers are utter strangers. Irrigation, however, is automatically accomplished through the medium of immense reservoirs, which are bountifully supplied during the four months' rainy season. In this and many other purely agricultural sections, two crops per year are raised. Good cane, delicious fruits, splendid vegetables, fine wheat, fair corn, magnificent tobacco and rather indifferent hay comprise the principal list of farm products. Strawberries are in continuous season, fine in quality and very reasonable in price. Native sugar serves as an acceptable companion to the berries, which would be delightful, were it not for the determined effort of the Mexican to inject into this otherwise tempting dish some of the "Gall Borden brand of condensed milk." The Mexican, you know, has just enough of the Indian in his composition to render him a formidable rival to the obdurate juror, who failed to comprehend the conduct of his eleven stubborn companions. The Mexican is not particularly exacting as to the quantity, but insists upon your trying the "Borden brand," be the test ever so insignificant.

As yet had insufficient time in which to thoroughly familiarize myself with Mexican law, and while I am not quite positive, still I strongly suspect there is a statute in existence requiring 90 per cent of the people residing contiguous to railroads to meet all passenger trains on arrival at their respective stations, and either sell to or beg from each passenger. If such statute does exist here, kindly permit me to sincerely compliment the officials upon its right enforcement. There are certainly few, if any, violators. They offer to sell you everything from a counterfeit opal—clear down the list to, and including their clothing, which in most instances consists of a broad grin, generally a red blanket, and never a corset. This religious observance of the "peddling-begging" law is as loyally respected in the larger cities as at railway stations.

The City of Mexico, whose altitude is 7,350 feet above the sea, has a population of 350,000, of whom, about only 4,000 are capable of speaking English. Owing to the peculiar and substantial construction of its houses, both public and private, defective flues and fires are unknown quantities, and this reasonably large city maintains but one fire engine, which is clearly outclassed by Maysville's old "Nagars." Street cars are numerous, shabby and divided into three classes, fares of which range downward from 6 cents first-class. Habits and manners of the Mexican street car passengers are identically the same as found in the United States. Men invariably occupy the seats, the women stand in the aisle. Back or cab riding is so ridiculously cheap here, that you are constantly reproaching yourself for ever having acquired the art of walking.

The most serious competitor encountered by the railroads (particularly that feature of the traffic pertaining to freight transportation) is found in the personage of the Peon, who, strange as it may seem, is an industrious Indian. He is endowed with the strength of an ox, and possesses powers of endurance surpassing those of the horse. He will carry upon his back enormous burdens, for any distance, at almost any price. He never walks,—always trots; never complains, and seldom drinks anything stronger than pulque, which, by the way, is the popular cheap drink of the Mexican Republic. It is the fermented juice of the cactus, is sold at half cent a glass and produces intoxication on regular schedule time. Jimmie Hunt would be in his element here, where pulque is abundant and cheap. It begets dreamy, not boisterous intoxication. All the men and women drink, and the children cry for it.

The City of Mexico is, of course, the home of President Diaz (pronounced De-us, with the strongly accented) and many historically and artistically interesting old cathedrals and palaces. The Cathedral of Guadalupe, among other admirable objects, contains a stair and altar railing of solid silver, weighing twenty-six tons. While respectfully gazing upon this wonderfully elegant ornament the thought occurred to me, if converted into money what an important factor it would become in Joe Blackburn's Senatorial race. This is the oldest and most universally respected Cathedral in the Republic. President Diaz resides at Chapultepec Castle,

Impure Blood

Was the cause of my not feeling very well during the spring for several years past.

I had that tired feeling, was weak and so tired that I could not do much work. For several years I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla regularly and it has cleansed my blood, driven off that tired feeling and built up my whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla has also benefited other members of my family, so that we would not be without a supply. STEPHEN McCLEARE, Greenwood, Arkansas.

situated on quite a prominence, from which the great old volcano Popocatepetli, covered with snow, is plainly visible, though thirty-five miles distant. The palace presented by Maximilian to Marshal Bazaine, though well located and handsomely constructed, is, and has been, closed and carefully sealed since the former's execution. Diaz is a shrewd diplomat, an Indian, has almost perfect control over his people and is ready, willing and anxious to grant all reasonable concessions to foreigners desirous of locating within his domain.

If my old friend John Combels could be prevailed upon to submit to one of Jimmie Cullen's good shaves and shampoos, he could come immediately to the Mexican border and palm himself off for Diaz. If some one would gently comb Uncle Wat Andrews' goatie (Maysville's Wat, I mean) he would be saluted as the President's favorite son-in-law. If Nick Gollenstein could be persuaded to temporarily discard his whiskers, I could easily produce his duplicate here. With abnormally large ear-rings, "Uncle Clem" could find a running mate without the assistance of a search warrant. John Sapp's, the late lamented Bill Glover's and the colored barber George Campbell's living pictures in brouze are seen here every few minutes, and "Little Jack" Huron and Early Schofield are shamefully counterfeited in nearly every State in the Republic. ## THE LATE MRS. ELEANOR CASE.

A Tribute to Deceased Read by the Rev. E. L. Shepard at the Funeral Services.

Eleanor A. Bishop was born in Snow Hill, Maryland, November 16th, 1814. Her father, William Bishop, moved to Maysville in 1821, or when she was seven years of age. He was keeper of the hospital, jailer and in other ways directly and intimately connected with the various more important movements and affairs in Maysville. This brought his wife and children into an observation more prominent than is usual—more persons were to be seen and dealt with. In one of the portions but just now read out of God's word, we find the traits of a woman calculated to wield the most wholesome influence in society and the community. As if these points of Scripture fitted with wisdom both of God and man had been the rule of daily life and habit the family of Mr. Bishop lived conveying in a marked way to all the acquaintances of this extended circle a vivid impression of tidiness, thrift, industry and wise management. In such a home our now departed friend grew up. Amid the more exacting demands of the housekeeping of those days, she attended school and prepared herself thus for greater usefulness.

While others may have consumed their time in frivolities, games and pastimes she employed the hours and days until her hands became skillful in needlework, spinning, knitting, the preparation of domestic remedies of great benefit; of articles for the table, the home and for friends.

In 1831, when seventeen years of age, she professed a saving faith in Jesus and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Being of sufficient age to take the step, after due consideration and care, she never changed in any sense her churchly relation. For over sixty-four years she lived in the same organization and has worshipped God in the same building for forty-seven years.

In 1836, when twenty-two years of age, she married Henry Case. To them were born nine children. Amid the allurements of a town that grew meanwhile into a city, she ordered the affairs of her household so that it was ever recognized as a home where God was feared, his church honored and his service never neglected. Her utmost was done, faithfully and conscientiously, to train her household in wisdom, usefulness, nobility and honor. Called in the inextinguishable wisdom and undoubted kindness of a benevolent Providence to lay away father and mother and then at different times to close the eyelids and seal the lips for the last time of six of her own family, she knew full well the bitterness of death and the pangs of separation. These did not awaken in her the resentment of unrighteous anger, nor the estrangement of unbelief. She maintained her faith in God, and her unceasing fidelity to her religious duties. Out of that which she saved by frugality, earned by diligent industry and provided by an honesty that could not be questioned, she contributed to religion, charity, education and patriotism with a habitual and liberal constancy.

If history gives us the typical Hebrew, or Grecian, or Roman, or German mother, the mothers that largely made these proud and mighty nations to be what they were, then may we say of Mrs. Eleanor Case, she lived, and planned and accomplished until, as Americans, as Christians, as citizens we are proud of such womanhood, motherhood, homebuilding and influence.

As a neighbor, it is not enough to say that she was kind, obliging and friendly, she was more. She anticipated, and ripe with wisdom even beyond her years, and skilled from experience, she visited, ministered and gave, until hundreds of hearts will recall her deeds and many lips will praise her.

Reading in Proverbs: "Faithful are the wounds of a friend, but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful," and "A friend loveth at all times but a brother is born for adversity." She was not hasty in making friends, nor promiscuous in choosing them, but when once chosen they were retained and they found her faithful not only in words and formalities but in substantial gifts.

bearing the impress of her own handiwork and painstaking. Her word was her bond and her fidelity golden.

Her morality was based upon and included the observance of all the Ten Commandments. It had the sturdy firmness of the oak and the tried firmness of steel. Her conscientiousness was ever sensitive and her integrity noted. But this arose from the force of her individual convictions. She would rather be right than to count her friends by so many scores.

All of these points may be mentioned as belonging to a character, and yet the Master came and said, "One thing thou lackest." Mrs. Case had in her possession until the last and requested that it be used at her memorial service the Bible of her mother. In it she had read of the good part chosen by Mary, and of that "wisdom that cometh down from above." She saw herself hopeless and guilty in the awfully pure light of God's truth. She sought to have not her own righteousness, but "that righteousness which is of God, by faith." This she secured clearly and definitely. She professed salvation in and through the name of Jesus. As years went on, growing almost into three score and ten, she did not conclude that in her early life she had been deceived, but renewing her covenant again and again around the altar of the church and obtaining strength from her Bible and her private devotions her faith more deeply embedded itself among the rock-like promises of God and the nourishing soil of his grace. She believed in prayer and song and public worship. For years beyond the average generation of man she was known as one who prayed, labored and gave for the prosperity of the church. She encouraged the toilers in God's vineyard and extended the ample hospitality of her home to numerous ministers. To such a life there could come but one termination. "How blest the righteous when he dies!" With her children and friends about her, her work well and faithfully done; in clear possession of her faculties she recognized that the time of her departure had come. Fear was absent, disturbance unknown, calmly and well possessed of assurance, as if talking about the commonest affairs of every day life she gave her last directions and said her last words. She was expressive of the state of her soul hid so long in the refuge of Jesus,—that she well knew was safe, she said, "Glory! glory! glory! hallelujah" and was not, for God had taken her. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Mills, and four children, William H., John L. and Harriet H. Case and Mrs. Rebecca Hamilton; also six grandchildren.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

EAST LIMESTONE.

Mrs. John Power has recovered from a somewhat severe attack of diphtheria throat trouble.

While there is said so much about the two full moons in December and which may be of rare occurrence, we cannot see why the event should be considered more of a singular incident than two new moons in one month—a fact which occurred as all will remember in the month of August, 1891, on the 1st and 30th.

Mr. John Little, whose critical illness was mentioned a few days ago, died Sunday night, December 29th, at 10 o'clock at his home on Kennedy's Creek, after thirteen days of patient suffering with pneumonia. He was thought to be better Sunday morning and the crisis past and pronounced at noon by his skillful physicians to be on a fair way to recovery, but suddenly took a relapse in the evening from which he never rallied, and he peacefully passed away at the hour named. Deceased was a native of Brown County, O., and was in the fifty-fourth year of his age. He was a kind husband and father, a man of quiet habits and of genial disposition, an agreeable neighbor, and enjoyed the respect of the community. His wife survives him and he leaves six children. The funeral occurred the following Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Grizzle of Sixth ward, who also conducted religious services at the house on Sunday evening previous to the death. Interment in the Plumville cemetery.

John Huffman has opened a shop on his own hook. He can now be found at the old Clary Shop, ready to do all kind of work in wood or iron. He is a No. 1 workman.

On Tuesday, December 31st, we learn through the Woodside House that our old friend R. M. Matthews who traveled for them was improving slowly. We hope he may soon be on the road again. He is now at his home in Lexington.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all human sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by all druggists.

Hieroglyphic Writing Unearthed in a Kentucky Mound.

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6.—Two of the largest and finest Indian peace pipes which have ever been taken from Kentucky soil have just been unearthed from the gigantic Indian mounds which tap the long range of Cumberland mountains just east of this place, by Mr. George Owens of this town. All the mounds were partly opened last week, and the two peace pipes, a battle-axe and a vast number of stone and shell beads, together with numberless arrow flints, were taken from these repositories. The peace pipes bear hieroglyphics or picture-written inscriptions upon their bowls, in complete form.
